MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRPERSON

MR. BRIJBHUSHAN SINGH BEDI
CHAIRPERSON
THE NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL SOCIETY

"Knowledge empowers and education transforms dreams into reality."

The New Public School has been nurtured with selfless strife, wholehearted love, and immense fortitude by the Great Big Aunty, whose life has been devoted to the cause of education. Alongside her stands the lovable soldier and true disciplinarian, Col. Balraj Singh, whose values of integrity, order, and commitment have shaped the school's ethos. The institution also stands as a living testimony to excellence due to the brilliance, foresight, and futuristic vision of Mr. R. D. Singh, Director, NPS, supported by a dedicated and tireless staff who work silently yet steadfastly for the growth of every child.

The school firmly believes in a holistic approach to education, where learning goes far beyond marks and examinations. Equal emphasis is placed on academics, skills, arts, sports, and value-based education. Activities promoting honesty, empathy, respect for diversity, and responsible citizenship are woven naturally into school life. In alignment with national educational priorities, a strong focus is placed on research and innovation, encouraging curiosity, inquiry, and creative thinking among learners.

School remains committed to inclusive education, ensuring that children with special needs are supported through assistive technologies and a compassionate learning environment. Health and wellness are given due importance through mindfulness practices and awareness of balanced nutrition, nurturing both physical and emotional well-being.

In today's digital age, the school actively promotes digital safety, guiding students towards responsible and ethical use of technology. Project-based and peer learning approaches encourage collaboration, leadership, and practical application of knowledge. Career guidance sessions help students explore future pathways with clarity and confidence, while life skills such as communication, emotional intelligence, and resilience are steadily cultivated.

Through creative expression, global awareness, and reflection on challenges, the school aims to prepare learners who are thoughtful, adaptable, and socially responsible.

May the Almighty bless the children with wisdom, strength, and compassion, and guide them always on the path of truth and excellence.

MR. R.D. SINGH RIAR
DIRECTOR

As you step into a world of limitless possibilities, remember that your greatest strength lies not in what you know, but in who you choose to be. Let kindness guide your actions, courage shape your dreams, and values light your path.

DIRECTOR'S REFLECTIONS

"True education is that which liberates and elevates the individual."

In today's world of technological advancement, we, at The New Public School believe that the true aim of education is the development of mind, character and capability of every student. Values such as integrity, empathy, discipline, respect and responsibility are timeless. They provide moral clarity in moments of uncertainty and serve as guiding principles amid complexity. Technology can amplify human potential, but without values, progress risks losing its purpose.

At NPS, academic excellence remains important, but we believe that education in the modern world must prepare students to face real-life challenges with confidence, adaptability and a strong moral compass. Recognizing this, NPS places a strong emphasis on skill-based education. The future demands individuals who can think critically, solve problems creatively, communicate effectively and collaborate meaningfully. Our approach integrates knowledge with application and values with skills ensuring that learning is both relevant and impactful.

As we prepare our students for a future shaped by rapid change and emerging technologies, NPS remains firmly rooted in its foundational values. By blending traditions with innovation and values with skills, we strive to nurture individuals who are future ready, principled, compassionate and responsible citizen of the country.

A NOTE FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

MR. SUKHRAJ SINGH RIAR
ADMINISTRATOR

> True education extends beyond books, blending knowledge with curiosity, ethical values, and critical thinking, thereby preparing individuals to adapt, contribute, and thrive in an ever-evolving global society.

"School education finds its true meaning in shaping reflective minds and responsible citizens."

Education has always been a matter of profound concern and aspiration for parents. In an era defined by rapid advancements in knowledge and technology, these expectations have become even more pronounced. With the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) introducing progressive reforms in curriculum and assessment, schools today shoulder a greater responsibility—to harmonize parental aspirations with the evolving needs of learners.

In this dynamic landscape, The New Public School stands as a beacon of learning, dedicated to delivering education that is relevant, responsive, and future-oriented.

ACADEMIC VISION

In alignment with CBSE's vision of competency-based and experiential learning, our institution emphasizes understanding, application, and skill development over rote memorisation. The academic framework nurtures critical thinking, creativity, effective communication, and problem-solving—competencies indispensable for success in the twenty-first century. Through structured pedagogy, innovative teaching methodologies, and continuous assessment, learning is transformed into an engaging, meaningful, and purposeful journey.

PARTNERSHIP WITH PARENTS

The well-being and holistic growth of every child remain central to our philosophy. Sensitive to the concerns of parents, we recognize that education is a shared responsibility between the institution and the home. Regular parent-teacher interactions, transparent communication, and collaborative initiatives ensure that children receive consistent guidance and support. This partnership fosters confidence, emotional security, and motivation, enabling students to realize their fullest potential.

INFRASTRUCTURE AND FACILITIES

Responding to the demands of contemporary education, The New Public School is equipped with modern infrastructure and technology-enabled classrooms that enrich the teaching-learning process. Well-resourced laboratories, libraries, digital tools, and co-curricular facilities complement academic instruction and promote experiential learning. Equal emphasis is placed on academics, sports, cultural activities, and life-skills education to ensure balanced and holistic development.

OUR ENDEAVOUR

Our constant endeavour is collective growth—of students, educators, and the institution as a whole. By instilling discipline, adaptability, ethical values, and a spirit of inquiry, we strive to prepare students to be future-ready and socially responsible.

As custodians of young minds, The New Public School remains steadfast in its commitment to fulfilling the evolving educational needs of children while honouring the trust and expectations of parents. Together, we shape confident, capable, and compassionate individuals who are prepared to meet the challenges of an ever-changing world.

MR. MANISH HABLANI
PRINCIPAL

In an era of curricular advancement, the strength of education lies in collective adaptability—where the school leads, teachers innovate, parents collaborate, and students grow into confident, future-ready learners.

PRINCIPAL'S PERSPECTIVE

"Education must strengthen minds, not merely simplify pathways."

Warm greetings to all readers.

Education has always been the backbone of India's progress, shaping generations of individuals who have not only served the nation with distinction but have also excelled on global platforms. As a principal who has witnessed multiple phases of our education system over the past two decades, I believe it is essential to critically and thoughtfully examine the recent changes introduced in our education policy—not merely in terms of their intent, but also their long-term impact on students' competitiveness, resilience, and fighting spirit.

Post-Independence, India laid a strong foundation for its education system through a series of visionary commissions. The University Education Commission (1948–49), chaired by Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, was followed by the Secondary Education Commission (1952–53) under Dr. A. Lakshmanaswami Mudaliar, and later the Education Commission (1964–66) chaired by Dr. D. S. Kothari. These commissions collectively shaped the core structure of Indian education for decades. While several committees and reforms were introduced thereafter, most retained the basic framework with only incremental changes—until the introduction of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020.

At a broader level, NEP 2020 is undoubtedly a well-intentioned and ambitious initiative. The flexibility in subject choices, the emphasis on skill-based education, and the promise of enhanced employability appear progressive and student-friendly. However, when examined more deeply—and from the perspective of an educator with over twenty years of experience—I cannot help but notice certain flaws that may have serious implications for the future of education and employment in India, as well as for Indians working across the globe.

Indian students have long been recognized for their ability to work hard, remain composed under pressure, and deliver results in demanding environments. This resilience did not emerge by chance. It was cultivated through a schooling system that imposed a certain degree of academic pressure, discipline, and accountability. Education is not merely about imparting knowledge; it is about preparing students for a world that is often harsh, competitive, and unforgiving.

Our strong emphasis on STEM education and specialization in higher studies enabled Indian professionals to succeed globally, attract multinational corporations, and establish India as a hub of intellectual capital. However, a shift is now underway—one that may significantly alter this trajectory by the end of the coming decade.

Even without sweeping structural reforms in the past, education boards and governing bodies gradually reduced syllabus depth, relaxed evaluation standards, and introduced mechanisms that ensured easy pass outcomes. At the core of this lies an uncomfortable question: Is this truly what we want for our children? Education today appears increasingly focused on distributing marks rather than developing competence.

Ironically, despite these concessions, today's youth is more stressed, anxious, and emotionally burdened than ever before—often deprived of a balanced childhood. This raises a critical question: Are studies genuinely becoming more demanding, or is society collectively perpetuating the illusion of excessive difficulty?

Competition is not inherently harmful. Pressure is not inherently damaging. Stepping out of one's comfort zone is essential for growth. What truly matters is the nature of competition, the source of pressure, and the purpose of the struggle. Healthy competition is internal—striving to become a better version of oneself. The pressure that arises from self-driven ambition is constructive. However, pressure driven by societal expectations, comparisons, or superficial scorecards can be destructive. Growth demands discomfort. One must break the cocoon to become a butterfly; comfort alone never leads to transformation.

Recent educational amendments, however, risk reinforcing this cocoon. The excessive flexibility in subject combinations, the introduction of comparatively easy skill-based alternatives, and the implementation of the three-language policy may appear empowering, but they may also offer a false sense of security.

Allow me to illustrate this through examples. An engineering student undoubtedly requires strong foundations in physics and mathematics—but chemistry is equally vital for understanding material behavior, corrosion, lubrication, heat transfer, and environmental interactions critical to machinery, from simple gears to complex aircraft systems. Similarly, a business manager may rely on economics and management theories, but without a solid understanding of accounting and financial statements, sound decision-making becomes nearly impossible. Furthermore, under the three-language policy, when students are compelled to choose two regional languages along with one foreign language, they often forgo internationally relevant languages such as French, German, Japanese, or Spanish—languages that could significantly enhance global employability.

What appears to be a stronger cocoon in the beginning ultimately weakens students from within. The spirit to compete, to endure pressure, to meet deadlines, and to confront challenges is gradually fading amidst excessive availability, accessibility, and comfort-driven choices. Life does not operate on convenience. Hardships are inevitable, and they serve as powerful teachers. Our generation endured academic and professional challenges that shaped resilience, confidence, and adaptability. It is not unreasonable to fear that future generations, shielded from struggle, may never fully understand how adversity forges strength of character.

Every decision carries consequences. These educational reforms will too. The lingering question remains—that bears responsibility? Is it the students, the parents, or a society that demanded these changes, despite their potential long-term harm?

This is not a call to reject reform, but a plea to reflect deeply—because the future of a nation is shaped not by comfort, but by character.

NCC ACTIVITIES 2025: BUILDING DISCIPLINE, PATRIOTISM AND LEADERSHIP

NCC

ANO SUNIL NATH

The NCC unit of The New Public School remained actively engaged throughout the academic year 2025, by organising and participating in a wide range of programmes to foster discipline, patriotism, physical fitness, and social responsibility among cadets. The year commenced with a Tree Plantation Drive on Earth Day, observed on 22 April 2025, in the esteemed presence of the Principal, Mr Manish Hablani, promoting awareness about the importance of environmental conservation. This was followed by a New Enrolment Drive on 6 May 2025, conducted within the school premises to select new cadets through a systematic process that involved written tests, physical efficiency, and medical examinations under the supervision of Army personnel and the ANO Sunil Nath.

A major highlight of the year was the Combined Annual Training Camp–175, held from June 25 to July 5, 2025, at Post Graduate College, Sector 11, Chandigarh, under the able guidance of Commanding Officer Col. Alok Kumar Roy. Several institutions across Chandigarh enthusiastically participated, with 21 cadets from The New Public School. The camp provided rigorous military training, leadership development, and exposure to NCC values. Our cadets displayed exceptional dedication and skill, bringing laurels to the school when Ayush Paswan was honoured with the Best Shooting Award in the Junior Boys category, reflecting outstanding marksmanship and focus.

In its continued effort to promote a drug-free society, NCC cadets actively participated in the "Say No to Drugs" rally held on 30 July 2025 at Urban Tiranga Park, Sector 17, in the august presence of the Governor of Chandigarh. Further strengthening this initiative, cadets took part in a Health Run titled "Run Against Drugs" on 7 September 2025 at Sukhna Lake, where NCC cadets from across Chandigarh participated in the event organised by the Chandigarh Group NCC. These activities played a vital role in spreading awareness about the harmful effects of drug abuse among the youth.

Patriotic fervour was prominently displayed during the "Har Ghar Tiranga" Rally organised on 13 August 2025, where school cadets, under the guidance of the Principal, Mr Manish Hablani, actively participated in promoting national pride and unity. Cadets also gained valuable insight into modern defence equipment and the functioning of the Indian Army while attending the Army Weapons Expo on 12 September 2025 in connection with Army Day. The year concluded on a patriotic note with the "Vande Mataram Commemoration" Celebration held on 14 November 2025, reaffirming the cadets' commitment to the nation.

Overall, the NCC activities throughout the year proved to be immensely enriching, instilling leadership qualities, discipline, social awareness, and a strong sense of nationalism among students. The unwavering support of the school management, guidance of our esteemed Principal, and dedicated efforts of the NCC officers ensured the successful execution of all programmes, making the NCC unit a source of pride for the institution.

SUCCESS in her words

YASHIKA

Success isn't about being the smartest, if you stay consistent, success is within your reach. What worked for me was being consistent, focussed and believing in myself. Rather than studying for long hours, I studied for four to five hours daily, along with extracurricular activities in order to refresh myself. I paid more attention to the subjects which I found difficult and completed my syllabus a month before. I solved previous years' question papers and sample papers which built my confidence. I even followed the instructions which our teachers gave and never lost self confidence. I always believed that the process is much more important than the result and hard work pays off.

NPS has played a very important role in my academic journey and success, and I, Yajas Mittal, am truly grateful for the guidance and support I received throughout my school years. I was able to achieve 95% in my Class 12 board examinations and a perfect score of 100 in Accountancy, which would not have been possible without the constant encouragement and efforts of my teachers. Anjani Ma'am always explained concepts with great patience and made learning enjoyable, while Anoop Sir continuously motivated us to push our limits and believe in ourselves. Ramesh Sir helped strengthen our fundamentals with clarity and precision, and Lokesh Sir guided us with smart exam strategies and practical tips that proved extremely helpful during boards. Each teacher at NPS treated students personally, understood our strengths and weaknesses, and supported us at every step. The disciplined environment, regular assessments, and personal mentoring at NPS helped me immensely, and I can confidently say that NPS truly prepares students for academic excellence and success in board examinations. For my juniors, I would strongly suggest focusing on PYQs, making short notes, and doing multiple revisions to build confidence. Especially in Accountancy, reading and understanding the theory along with practice of practical problems is very crucial. For Business Studies, I suggest reading NCERT and learning important key words which will certainly help you all in solving case studies and also do practice solving case studies. Learn Economics using real life examples and English by understanding the story and practicing PYQs. If you do all this, no one can stop you from achieving 95%. And at last I give my best wishes to my juniors and I hope they score above their desired scores in the upcoming board exams.

Continuous guidance from dedicated teachers helped me improve not only academically but also personally. They always motivated every child to strive for excellence in studies and life. Hostel life taught me independence, responsibility, cooperation, and adjustment. Living with friends nurtured true friendship, while caring wardens and staff supported each one like a family.

Success is the result of consistent hardwork, discipline and belief in oneself. Becoming school topper in board examinations was a dream that turned into reality only because of my teacher's guidance. I paid close attention in class and asked questions whenever I had doubts. Solving previous year question papers and sample papers improved my speed as well as my accuracy. I avoided excessive mobile usage. Teachers and parents were my strongest support system. My teachers guided me with valuable feedback and encouragement while parents provided positive stress free environment at home. I stayed calm during exams, read questions carefully and managed time wisely in examination hall. I thank specifically my teachers for believing in me and guiding me throughout my school life which helped me aaccomplishing not only in my academics but also in my life.

ECO, PEACE AND INTERACT CLUBS - HAND IN HAND, UNITED FOR EARTH, PEACE AND HUMANITY

Our budding changemakers turned curiosity into action through the meaningful initiatives of the Eco, Interact and Peace Clubs. From exploring local flora with QR codes and discovering wild edibles to planting trees during Earth Day and Van Mahotsav, they celebrated their connection with nature. Conservation projects for dolphins, visits to heritage sites, and initiatives like 'Wish Tree' on Anti-Drug Day inspired compassion, responsibility and community spirit. Together, these experiences transformed learning into meaningful action, showing that caring for our planet and each other can create a brighter, greener, and more harmonious world.

The newly introduced Early Act Club, guided by the motto "Service Before Self", entrusted students with roles that inspire leadership, teamwork and responsibility. Supported by Rotary Club Chandigarh, this new initiative nurtures young learners to take meaningful steps in service and lays the foundation for future endeavours.

CLUBS BUZZ: EXPLORING, ENGAGING AND EMPOWERING

NEW CLUBS, NEW ADVENTURES !

Two exciting new initiatives – the Animal Fan Club and the Health & Wellness Club – have sparked curiosity, care and conscious living among students. The Animal Fan Club inspired young minds to explore wildlife through visits, drawings, messages and vision boards, learn about animal protection laws and advocate for the humane treatment of stray dogs, earning recognition from US delegates for the school's pioneering efforts. Meanwhile, the Health & Wellness Club encouraged students to adopt healthy habits through engaging sessions on first aid, nutrition and mindful living. Together, these clubs are nurturing compassionate, responsible and joyful changemakers ready to make a positive impact on their world.

The Philately Club turned tiny stamps into big stories this year! Students enjoyed designing their own stamps, explored the fascinating history behind postal art, and analysed unique stamps from India and beyond. Independence Day brought a burst of patriotic creativity as members crafted vibrant freedom-themed stamps. Adding a cultural twist, students also designed special stamps showcasing the charm of Chandigarh, along with the rich traditions of Tripura and Mizoram. Through these colourful activities, the club celebrated art, history, and imagination—one stamp at a time.

Health And Wellness Club

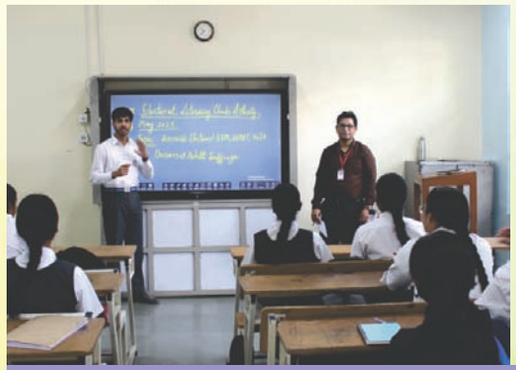

Wonder, Question, Discover: Science Club Explorations

The Science Club buzzed with energy this year as students turned simple ideas into exciting discoveries. Balloons inflated magically with baking soda and vinegar, bulbs lit up with nothing more than saltwater, and vibrant colours climbed paper towers through capillary action. Students felt the invisible force of atmospheric pressure, explored the school garden to study plants up close, and transformed everyday electrical components into working circuits. Each activity blended curiosity with creativity, making science not just a subject—but an adventure waiting to unfold.

Animal Fan Club

Empowered Youth, Brighter Future : Electoral and Yuva Tourism Club in action

The Electoral Literacy Club made voter awareness fun all year long with the theme "No Voter to be Left Behind." Students got creative with debates, posters, quizzes, school plays and even election simulations. National Voters' Day came alive with pledge ceremonies and friendly competitions. From registration drives to hands-on sessions on EVMs, NOTA and the Voter Helpline, the club turned learning about voting into an exciting, action-packed experience.

The Yuva Tourism Club involved students in a range of creative and experiential activities. From crafting imaginative brochures to creating colourful designs in Radiant Rangoli, each activity encouraged creativity and expression. Experiences like the Jaipur Heritage Expedition and the visit to Sector-17 Market turned learning into real-world exposure, inspiring students to observe, learn and share their experiences.

EMPOWERING MINDS WITH PRACTICAL SKILLS

The year opened new avenues of learning through a variety of Skill-based Subjects that blended knowledge with real-life application. Cultural Food and Food Preservation introduced students to flavours and basic culinary techniques, building confidence in simple kitchen skills, while Mass Media became a space where ideas took shape through creative posters and presentations. Herbal Heritage led them towards the healing power of nature and Beauty & Wellness encouraged awareness of self-care and personal hygiene. Adding to this practical exposure, "What to Do When the Doctor Is Not Around" familiarised students with essential first-aid skills, making learning purposeful and closely connected to everyday life.

When Students Build, Learning Finds Strength

EBSB Club: Bridging States, Building Bonds

Under the Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat (EBSB) initiative, students explored the culture and heritage of the paired states, Tripura and Mizoram, through a range of thoughtfully designed activities. They expressed their learning through creative scrapbooks and essay writing, while toy-making activities helped them understand the traditional practices of the region. Students also wrote the names of plants in the school in the languages of the paired states, building cultural and linguistic awareness. The activities provided meaningful exposure to India's diversity while encouraging creativity and deeper understanding.

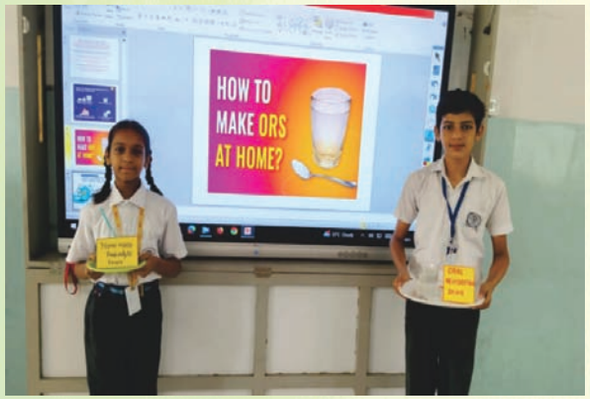

Mock Drill, Real Skills: Disaster Club Leads the Way

The Disaster Management Club focused on building preparedness and awareness throughout the year. Students learned how to plan before a disaster, explored the roles of national agencies like NDMA and NDRF, and actively spread awareness on safety measures for various emergencies. Through situation-based class discussions, they practised responding to scenarios such as earthquakes, floods, and fires. These activities helped students develop practical knowledge, confidence, and a responsible attitude toward disaster readiness.

FROM PAGE TO PERFORMANCE: WHERE LEARNING BECOMES AN ADVENTURE

Merging art with academics through Art-Integrated and Interdisciplinary Activities, students develop innovative problem-solving skills and a deeper understanding of complex concepts.These activities, including models, visual and performing arts, and role plays based on History and Science help students connect ideas across subjects, enhancing retention and application. They also boost confidence, empathy, and cultural awareness, essential for holistic development.Through these initiatives, we're shaping creative thinkers, effective communicators, and lifelong learners.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Real Education Goes Beyond Academics; it nurtures the heart, shapes the mind & strengthens the body.

As a school counsellor, I work closely with students as they navigate academics, friendships, sports, life skills, and personal growth. One truth has become increasingly evident—mental health is as vital as physical health, especially for young minds facing constant change and pressure. Students today juggle difficult choices such as stream selection, time management, peer pressure, rising competition, emotional regulation, and maintaining healthy relationships.

Modern students experience unprecedented stress from exams, social expectations, family responsibilities, and the pervasive influence of social media. Excessive screen time, online gaming, and digital exposure have reduced attention spans and, in many cases, increased aggression. Many students struggle silently, believing they must cope alone. It is important to remember that asking for help is not a weakness—it is strength.

To address these challenges, our counselling program conducts sessions involving mindfulness practices, role plays, and interactive activities. Awareness programs on adolescent development, the POCSO Act, menstrual hygiene, and digital safety are conducted for students, parents, teachers, and support staff. Activities such as gratitude jars, human knots, memory games, and short film screenings promote emotional awareness, while life skills like conflict resolution, financial literacy, and anti-bullying strategies are actively taught. Mental health concerns may appear as mood changes, withdrawal, academic decline, fatigue, or persistent worry. Recognizing these signs early is crucial.

Our school strives to create a safe, inclusive environment where open conversations about mental well-being are encouraged. Simple habits—talking to someone, staying active, resting well, and being kind to oneself—can make a powerful difference.

A CANVAS OF YOUNG EXPRESSIONS: LITERARY ENDEAVOURS OF OUR BUDDING WRITERS

The Silent Tears of Mountains

Once upon a time, lived a group of mountains. They would chat with each other, play games and lived peacefully. This happened for a few decades. After then, a few human beings asked the mountains that could they reside on them or not. The mountains accepted the humans request and welcomed them gracefully. Now, the humans would chat with the mountains and had fun. The mountains would give the humans some necessities such as wood, fruit etc. The mountains also told the human that they love cleanliness. They also taught them how to survive in a disaster. Soon, they became good friends. One night, suddenly one mountain started to have pain. He felt that someone was pricking him. Due to the pain he started to cry bitterly. The same thing happened to all other mountains that night. All of them were surprised when they saw who was doing this. It was the humans who once were their best friends. The humans were digging them using trowels. Several machines like excavators, bulldozers etc. The mountains asked the humans, "Why are you doing this?" The humans replied that they were making roads and buildings so that other persons could also come and enjoy. The mountains agreed but warned that don't do unwanted constructions and maintain hygiene. The humans ignored them and returned in their work. Soon after, many roads were built and many tourists started to come. They threw garbage everywhere and did many other careless activities. The humans knew that the mountains hate to be dirty; still didn't tell the tourists to maintain hygiene. The mountains were feeling very unhygienic and had many changes in themselves due to the humans' careless activities. They were pissed off and wanted to take revenge. That is why, one day, they and other natural things gathered for a meeting. It included the mountains, Mr. Snow, Mr. Cloud, Mrs. River, and Mrs. Rock. Mrs. Rock was instructed to roll as fast as she could and crush the people like cardamoms. Mr. Cloud was instructed by the mountains to get busted so that many people would drown and die. Mrs. River was said to bring her furry waves in the mountains. Mr. Snow was instructed to begin many avalanches.

After some days, everything happened as per the instructions of the mountains. Cloud burst, Avalanches, Flash Floods, and Landslides were becoming more common. About 80% tourists died, 19.5% injured, and 0.5% survived. The 0.5% were those who were the mountains' friends. They survived because the mountains had taught them how to save your life in a disaster. The humans asked the mountains for the reason of this incident. The mountains replied, "You are the reason. We warned you but still you did unwanted constructions. Also, the tourists did very unhygienic activities and instead of telling them not to litter, you supported them. This made us feel very angry and that is why we took revenge."

The humans requested the mountains to forgive them. The mountains replied, "Your work is not forgivable but as we are best friends, we will forgive you only at one condition. The condition is that- You won't talk to us from today onwards." The humans accepted the mountains' condition as they had no other choice. They started to live according to the nature. But after several decades, the humans are doing the same mistakes but this time the mountains are silent and their silent tears continue to roll on.

Subject: Letter to My Role Model – Vladimir Putin

Respected Sir

I am writing this letter to share my thoughts about my role model. A role model is someone who influences our thinking and guides us to become better human beings. My role model is Mr. Vladimir Putin, whose life and leadership has inspired me in many ways.

What attracts me the most about Vladimir Putin is his journey. He did not come from a very rich or powerful background. His childhood was full of struggles, yet he never gave up. Instead of complaining, he worked hard on himself. He focused on education, discipline, and physical fitness. This teaches me that success is not achieved overnight and that determination matters more than comfort.

Another reason why I admire him is his strong love for his country. As a leader, he always puts the nation first. Even in difficult situations, he takes responsibility and stands by his decisions. I believe this is the sign of a true leader. From him, I learn that leadership is not about power, but about duty and courage.

Vladimir Putin is also known for his calm and confident personality. No matter how serious the situation is, he remains composed. This quality inspires me as a student because I often feel nervous during exams or stressful situations. His attitude teaches me to stay calm, think clearly, and face problems with confidence instead of fear.

I also admire his disciplined lifestyle. His interest in sports and martial arts shows the importance of physical and mental strength. This motivates me to follow a disciplined routine, wake up on time, and balance my studies with physical activity. I have realised that discipline plays a very important role in achieving long-term goals.

What I find most inspiring is his ability to take tough decisions. Not everyone agrees with his choices, but he stands firm and does what he believes is right for his country. This has taught me that it is impossible to please everyone, and we must have the courage to stand by our values.

As a class X student, I am at a stage where I am shaping my future. Learning about such leaders helps me understand the importance of responsibility, honesty, and dedication. Vladimir Putin motivates me to work hard, stay focused, and never lose confidence in myself, even when things do not go as planned. I wish to apply these values in my life and contribute positively to society in the future.

Yours sincerely,

THE CONTINENTAL INVASION

It was just another day in the Evercome Public School for the four best friends Joe, (Joseph), Ellie, Penny (Penelope) and Greg (Gregory). They often referred to themselves as the 'Guardians of The Galaxy 2: Electric Boogaloo' (For context - The Guardians of the Galaxy is a series of movies created by MARVEL studios and 'Electric Boogaloo' is just the first stupid thing that came into Greg's stupid mind). They were in the 7th grade and were currently being bored to death in old Mrs. MacKenzie's literature class. When the class ended, they felt joy immeasurable. Just then something very strange happened, they heard a siren. But not the usual kind for Air raid drills and stuff. It was almost out of this world. And then a BANG! Fire was everywhere and rescue helicopters rushed in from all sides. But they couldn't get out of their classroom in time. Now they were stuck, alone and isolated. Joe peeped out of the broken window and was absolutely horrified by what he saw, a giant spaceship (twice the size of the school and to be frank their school was not small either). They took everyone's lunches and water bottles and stuffed them in the largest bags they could find. They looted the cafeteria swiftly and avoided the-whatever those blue, green and red things were. They locked themselves in the underground school gym. Now they were thinking that how in the name of Arceus (Pokémon god) were they going to escape? Then Greg's stupid mouth finally said something useful. "How about we destroy it from the inside?" This was brilliant. All they needed to do was to sneak in that giant spaceship. How? Then Penny had Irish luck, she found a shotgun in the coach's drawer. Then, the group sent out their strongest member, Ellie. At first, she was hesitant to blow off four aliens with a gun that was probably 20 years old but was eventually pressured into doing so by the masterful manipulation tactics of Penny. Narrator-Now we will see from Ellie's point of view for a while. "Good god, why am I doing this to myself? But well either way it is a life or death situation." Ellie said to herself while sighing. But then suddenly she saw one alien isolated from others by a long shot. Then, she went in for the kill. BANG! Green stuff everywhere, probably blood of their kind. She stole their uniforms including their helmets for concealment. She delivered a similar fate to 4 others like them. However, while she was returning back to their HQ of sorts, two ran after her. She only had two bullets and delivered precision strikes to both of them. She then proceeded to conceal their bodies swiftly in order to erase any evidence. When she returned, Penny nearly screamed, but Greg covered her mouth. Ellie was covered in green stuff, thingy. Narrator-Back to normal POV. They put their uniforms on and took out the special Laser Guns Joe found. They first blended themselves with the aliens and then, at the worst possible time, Greg's stupid mind thought it would just be perfect to have the urge to go to the bathroom. Joe wanted to say such unimaginable things to him but he controlled himself and just told him to shut up and move on. Penny found an opportunity to slide into the spaceship because Ellie had murdered a commanding officer and Penny conveniently got that uniform. Penny also had a bigger and powerful gun due to her rank. For some unknown reason, Greg thought it would be a good idea to also go in with Penny and with some universal luck he actually got in. Then, the aliens got a transmission that a civil war was happening on their planet and they had to cancel the invasion of earth and had to retreat. And Greg activated the self destruct sequence while panicking. He grabbed Penny and jumped off the spaceship. Thankfully, Ellie quickly ran and pushed them into the trampoline installed in their school which was MASSIVE. They survived with minor injuries and Greg's arm was fractured. They saw the spaceship explode in the sky, thanks to Greg's stupid antics which could actually be useful sometimes and they lived happily ever after.

Your pride will shatter when the earth ceases.
And the money that you hold will be mere pieces.

Smog of greed may settle down in your hands.
But it will only destroy your kind mother land.

Greenery in deserts shouldn't get applause,
When the native wildlife is constantly at loss.

It will all taste like poison when the end is near.
And your face will be smitten with remorse and fear.

The weather won't change in a step or two,
It will be when you wake up from all the hidden grue.

When the calamity strikes, it may not be far away,
It may knock at everyone's door to have their final say.

It's time that you clear all this mist and realize,
There's no planet B and no other light.

THE PRESSURE

She studies till the candles die,
Yet every mark feels never high.
Their words-so sharp, full of doubt
Cut deeper than she speaks about.

They push, she breaks, she tries again,
But effort drowns beneath the pain.
And slowly, hope begins to fade,
A dreamer lost in grades they made.

Now silence fills the space she kept,
For all the tears she never wept.
She wished they'd see beyond score-
The child they loved was worth more.

Small things that hold us
Some days feel heavier than others.
The mind is loud,
the heart grows tired.
We keep moving,
but somewhere in between,
we break a little.
Life does that,
it pulls, it tests,
it lets us fall
without warning.
And in those moments,
everything feels still,
like the sky
waiting for rain.
Then comes something small.
A kind word.
A pause.
A presence that understands.
Sometimes,
it is the breeze at the window,
the moon resting above us,
stars reminding us
that light exists
even when we cannot feel it yet.
Nothing loud.
Nothing grand.
Just enough
to help us breathe again.
Slowly, we rise.
Not healed,
just steadier.
We learn that comfort
comes in many forms,
a gentle voice,
a quiet night,
the sky holding its stars.
And we carry these moments with us,
because someday,
when life bends us again,
we will remember,
even the smallest light
knows how to stay.

निबंध : मैं अमृतकाल का भारत हूँ।

मैं वह भारत हूँ जो अपने पुराने गौरवशाली इतिहास से प्रेरणा लेकर आगे बढ़ता रहा है। मेरी धरती, इमारतें और नदियाँ सब मिलकर मेरी कहानी कहती हैं। इन सबने मुझे न केवल ताकत दी है बल्कि आगे बढ़ने का हौंसला भी दिया है। अमृतकाल सिर्फ़ एक समय नहीं है, यह बदलते रूप की एक यात्रा है। - एक ऐसा समय जिसमें मैं आत्मनिर्भर बन रहा हूँ, नई तकनीकों को अपना रहा हूँ और सबको बराबरी का अधिकार देने की दिशा में आगे बढ़ रहा हूँ। मुझे इस बात पर गर्व है, कि मैं परंपरा और आधुनिकता को साथ लेकर चल रहा हूँ। मेरे पास हज़ारों सालों का ज्ञान है और मैं उसी आधार पर भविष्य की ओर कदम बढ़ा रहा हूँ। आज मैं डिजिटल दुनिया का एक अहम हिस्सा बन चुका हूँ, जहाँ नए-नए स्टार्टअप और इनोवेशन मेरे नौजवानों को आगे बढ़ने का मौका दे रहे हैं। विज्ञान और खोज के क्षेत्र में मैं लगातार नाम कमा रहा हूँ और पूरी दुनिया मुझे अब नए नज़रिए से देख रही है। लेकिन मेरा विकास सिर्फ़ तकनीक या पैसे तक ही सीमित नहीं है। मेरी असली ताकत मेरे लोग हैं – वो किसान जो खेतों में मेहनत करते हैं, वो वैज्ञानिक जो नई खोजें करते हैं और वो युवा जो बड़े सपने देखते हैं और उन्हें पूरा करने का जज़्बा रखते हैं। मैं हर परिवार की उम्मीद हूँ, हर माँ-बाप की आशा हूँ और हर बच्चे का सपना भी। अमृतकाल में मेरा सपना है, कि कोई भी भूखा न सोए, कोई बच्चा शिक्षा से वंचित न रहे और हर महिला सुरक्षित महसूस करे। मैं चाहता हूँ कि दूर गाँव में में बिजली हो, हर गली साफ़ हो और दिल में प्यार और गर्व हो। मैं चाहता हूँ, कि मेरा पर्यावरण सुरक्षित रहे – मेरे पेड़, मेरी नदियाँ, मेरी हवा सब शुद्ध रहें। मैं हरित (ग्रीन) भारत की ओर बढ़ रहा हूँ, जहाँ विकास और प्रकृति दोनों साथ-साथ कदम मिलाकर चल रहे हैं। आज मैं भारत 'अमृतकाल' में प्रवेश कर चुका हूँ। यह समय मेरे लिए बहुत ख़ास है। यह सिर्फ़ समय का नाम नहीं, बल्कि एक नया मौका है – खुद को बेहतर बनाने का। अपने लोगों की ज़िंदगी को आसान और खुशहाल बनाने का यह वह समय है, जब मैं अपने अतीत से सीखते हुए, भविष्य की ओर आत्मविश्वास से आगे बढ़ रहा हूँ। मुझे इस बात पर गर्व है कि मैंने कठिन समय में हार नहीं मानी। मैंने हर चुनौती का सामना किया और अब मैं पहले से कई गुना ज्यादा मज़बूत बन चुका हूँ। मेरे बच्चों की मेहनत, युवाओं की सोच, मेरी महिलाओं का साहस और मेरे बुजुर्गों की सीख – ये सब मुझे मिलकर आगे बढ़ते रहने की ताकत प्रदान करते हैं। अमृतकाल में मेरा लक्ष्य है, कि मैं एक ऐसा देश बनूँ, जहाँ हर व्यक्ति पढ़-लिख सके, जहाँ सबको नौकरी और सम्मान मिले। जहाँ औरतें पूरी आज़ादी और सुरक्षा के साथ जी सकें और कोई व्यक्ति भी भूखा न सोए। मैं यह भी जानता हूँ कि यह सफ़र आसान नहीं होगा। लेकिन जब तक मेरे नागरिक मेरे साथ हैं, जब हर हाथ देश के लिए उठ रहा है, जब हर दिल में एक नई उम्मीद है – तब कोई भी सपना अधूरा नहीं रह सकता। अब समय आ गया है, कि हम सब मिलकर तय करें, कि हम एक साथ आगे बढ़ेंगे। हम अपने देश को ऐसा बनाएँ, जिस पर आने वाली पीढ़ियाँ गर्व करें। क्योंकि मैं अमृतकाल का भारत हूँ – मैं सिर्फ़ एक देश नहीं, मैं हर उस सपने का नाम हूँ जो सच होने की उम्मीद रखता है। मैं वह भारत हूँ, जो अपने अतीत से प्रेरणा लेता है, अपने वर्तमान पर विश्वास करता है और अपने भविष्य को रोशनी से भरने के लिए तैयार खड़ा है।

Whenever I feel sullen, I draw my eyes to my sketchbook and pencil waiting for me. After creating something, a sense of accomplishment rushes all over me. Igniting a spark of joy in someone's gloomiest of gloomy days, I let the wind lead, Fabricating another of my thoughts on paper in my stead.

I follow the water's uneven path on the page, blooming in harmony with the paint. 'What joy does this bring me?', I am asked,

Your guess is as good as mine,
mate.

Seeking its answer identically is like trying to find your forever-lost eraser

I am hopelessly tired.

To recover, I again turn to my sketchbook and capture people's expressions,
Sometimes in the guise of revenge.

THE FORGOTTEN CARVINGS

The forest, quiet as usual, gave me a strange sense of peace like it always does. Today is the second day of our project. Yesterday was not at all fruitful and I being a fresher in this field was unable to know where I had been going wrong. Maybe first attempts are always like this, like my first project for which I had gone to the beautiful, misty forests of Arunachal Pradesh; spent one whole month in the mysteries of that place but at last the mysteries remained mysteries only- couldn't find anything.

My name is Sakshi, Sakshi Sinha and I am an anthropologist. I am not into a very famous profession so, just to let you know anthropologist are people who study different cultures, traditions and tribal communities. I got into this profession because of my love for forests and rich tribal life of India, since my teen years.

Now, back to present, I and my partner Aarav are here in Jharkhand, second day of my second project; Aarav is pretty experienced. We have been walking since six in the morning and it is almost ten and progress- absolutely nothing. I have been so desperate to get something out of these forests and show my boss, who thinks I am of no use and his accusations have only increased after my previous project, that I can also do something and I have not gotten into this field for nothing. I want to show him my worth.

We decided to sit for a moment and eat something. Aarav offered his sandwiches, "Here Sakshi, I made these myself, and I believe I am a good cook." I thanked him and ate. "These are actually good!" I said, and perhaps they were. After a while I said, " I think I saw a water stream nearby, I'll go and refill water in our bottles" He replied, "I am tired, but don't go alone it's dangerous, lets sit for a few more minutes and then go." Well water was just an excuse I wanted to explore more but alone. "umm.. I'll go don't worry for me." I said, but he seemed concerned. We had been hearing sounds of wild animals occasionally in this area. "Are you sure?" he asked, I assured him and left.

Being alone in this dense, beautiful but scary forest gives me chills. I can hear sound of various wild organisms. Distant sounds of monkeys, birds and many unknown creatures were occasional and there was a constant sound of crickets. But still, I don't know how and why this place seems eerily quiet. It feels like pin drop silence despite these noises. Suddenly I tripped over something and fell. Fell on my face, but I was fine. I went back to see what led to me ending up with mud all my clothes and my hands being scratched. It looked like I rock I was about to ignore but I noticed it was carved and rocks don't carve on their own.

I wiped off some mud with my sleeve and bent to look down. The surface was worn out. Seemed like it is just the tip of the ice burg, feels like it is buried deep inside the surface. My heart beat quickened…. Is this what we were aiming for? "Aarav!" I called out and a minute later I heard hurried footsteps approaching. "What's wrong? Are you okay?", he said panting. I replied "Look at this!". He crouched beside me and took a look. "These carvings are ancient. Maybe tribal, we'll need to analyze for exact information."

"Exactly! These look like they are made by people"

We brushed off a little more mud, and soon the shape became clearer- a face. The carvings formed eyes and a faint smile, worn down by time. My breath caught. "It's a figure," I said softly. Aarav nodded slowly. "Maybe a deity… or a protector spirit. Tribes here used to carve stones for worship."

For a few seconds, neither of us spoke. The forest around us was quiet again, not peaceful quiet, but the kind that makes you feel you've stepped into someone else's memory. I don't know why, but I suddenly felt small. Like the forest had been holding this secret for years, waiting for someone to find it.

We marked the spot and took a few pictures, but somehow it didn't feel right to stay any longer. The wind had picked up slightly, rustling the trees, almost as if the forest itself was whispering. Aarav looked at me and said quietly, "Let's go. We'll report this."

As we walked back, I kept turning to look at that stone face- half-buried, half-forgotten. It made me think about how many such stories must still lie hidden across India- stories of the tribes who once lived close to nature, worshipped it, protected it. Their art, their songs, their beliefs- all woven into the forests and mountains around us, yet slowly fading with time.

I realized that we hadn't found just a carving. It was a reminder- that India's true heritage isn't in museums or monuments alone, but in the silent hearts of its forests, where the spirits of its first people still live.

ASHES OF THE UNSEEN

Walked the alleys none but sorrow tread,
A watcher bound to trails the hopeless bled,
And saw a mother warm her child from frost
Her whispered mercy choking at the cost.

They queued for bread that vanished by the day,
While nations feasted far beyond decay
And though their hunger carved them into sand,
The world still turned without a backward glance.

A man bent low beneath the city's roar,
His coat a memory of warmth he wore,
He shivered beneath towers built on greed
A silent ledger marking every need.

A boy scraped dreams from corners of the street,
His heartbeat echoing the grinding beat,
I carry all these wounds yet bear no name
And do you feel their weight or share the same fate?

From the moment the session began, the students of Airawati House embraced a culture of dedication.
